The Public Record Research System PRRS

PRRS is the ultimate public record resource! In seconds, subscribers have in-depth information about how to access public records directly from 28,000+ government agencies and institutions. Profiles include access methods (including if online), indexing and search requirements, restrictions, and fees. The Courts Section informs you when online searching is or is not equivalent to onsite research for most courts.

PRRS consists of 7 individual BRB databases and each is offered on an ALA Carte basis as well:

- State, county, and local courts
- State agencies
- Federal courts and record centers
- Occupational licensing boards
- County recorders & assessors offices
- Colleges and universities
- LOCUS: Zip Code - county - place name

Criminal Record Sources - CRS

CriminalRecordSources.com (CRS) is the authoritative reference about criminal records. CRS tells you the pros and cons of searching different record repositories. CRS is your information source for: (Where) The locations of criminal records - from both government agencies and vendors; (How) The ways criminal records may be directly accessed; (Accuracy) When the accuracy and value of a criminal record will vary by location.

CRS features an Equivalency

Matrix: rating the accuracy and thoroughness of state judicial and repository online systems with statements if online search results are equivalent to an onsite search. CRA also contains links to over 50 unique federal search sites, including sanction & watch lists.

The State Rules Register

Compliance with the myriad of state laws is a complex subject that constantly needs attention with the continuous stream of ongoing changes mandated by state legislation. Written and kept up-to-date by one of the nation's leading employment law attorneys, the State Rules Register is a unique solution. This online guide details the state laws which impact CRAs (consumer reporting agencies) and their clients (hiring managers and property managers). The State Rules Register is an easy-to-use solution written in "Plain English." Users are notified of law changes and significant court cases.

The National Directory of Local Onsite Record Retrievers and Record Vendors PRRN

This is the "who's who" of public record professionals. Find full details on any one of the 2,200 local researchers. Set-up your own nationwide network of on-site document retrieval specialists. Also find Gateways, Data Aggregators, Employment Screening Firms and Tenant Screening Firms. Search by state and by record category.

Motor Vehicle Access and Decoder Digest

The online version of The MVR Access and Decoder Digest is a comprehensive reference source of DMV regulations, state conviction code tables, and record access (driver and vehicle) procedures in all 50 states. Have an out-of-state MVR with violation codes? You can quickly decode MVRs . . . in practical terms . . . in just seconds!

SSN Validator and Death Index

The SSN Validator-Web provides cost effective assurance of verifying identity and fighting fraud. Simply enter the 9-digit SSN and you will know within seconds if the number is valid. BRB's SSN Validator also identifies the year and state of issue - a geographical clue to when and where the individual obtained the SSN. Added features include batch loading PLUS a simultaneous search of the U.S. Death Index (current as of 8/20/2013).

Guide to Private Investigator State Licensing Laws

Besides explaining each state's licensing process and requirements of how to become licensed, this online tool also interprets the States' PI Licensing Laws regarding CRAs. The Guide instructs which states require a CRA to have a PI license or explanations for the "It Depends" laws. The Guide is kept up-to-date and users are informed of law changes.

XML Data Access

Information from most BRB databases is available in XML format. Integrate BRB data into your platform or within data applications. Tell us what you need and we'll build a service for you. Call or email for details!
