Missouri Court Documents Now Online

Court documents filed on or after July 1, 2023, are now available online to view, download, and print in certain counties. Previously access to view any documents was only available at each individual courthouse using the public access terminal or with the assistance of court staff.

Missouri is utilizing its online case management system, CaseNet, to provide the newly expanded access to court documents in a scheduled rollout.

See the chart below to learn when each county will have documents available. Bear in mind, at this time, only documents filed on or after July 1, 2023, will be accessible, and not all historical records.

Note: There are strict redaction requirements in place for anyone filing a document. This includes the following personal identifying information: SSN, DOB, Driver's License number, and State ID. These redaction requirements help ensure that the public's privacy and safety are not compromised.

Public Access in Erie County, New York

The public access computer in Erie County, NY court was removed in June. Prior to removal, the court had a public computer located in the basement of the County Clerk's office available to the public, which contained their criminal index. Due to this recent removal, the public can no longer review or search the court's criminal index independently. Individuals seeking to perform record searches are referred to the New York State Office of Court Administration, also known as OCA. Searches performed by the OCA are $95.00 each. Alternatively, if you know the case number, the clerk can provide you with a certificate of disposition at $5.00 per case. There are only two clerks at this court, which may not allow them to accommodate large requests. A member of the clerk's staff shared that the removal of the terminal was due to a statewide decision that will cause any remaining public computers across the state to be removed. No time frame was provided. To note, most courts do refer requestors to the OCA, so this is not something altogether new in New York. It does, however, create a barrier to what was a simple process. Additionally, it causes delays and added expenses to the process. If you are not familiar with OCA, you can learn more by visiting <https://ww2.nycourts.gov/apps/chrs/index.shtml>.

Expanded Public Access in Arkansas Courts

A collaboration between the Arkansas Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC) and the Arkansas Court Improvement Program (AJK) is bringing much-needed new technology to many courts across the state. The AR Courthouse Kiosk initiative has already funded and placed 37 public access computers with a goal of 112 by the year's end. Some of the most recent recipients of these computers, referred to as Kiosks, are the Circuit courts of Cleveland, Craighead (Lake & Jonesboro), Logan (Booneville & Paris), Madison, and Van Buren counties. Note: There is no unique case management system being utilized on these computers. The functions available are identical to those that can be found online at <https://arcourtkiosk.org/>. This initiative is aimed at giving community members free access to legal resources and court information.
